

Hollywood Composer's Death Is Officially Declared Suicide

HOLLYWOOD SUICIDE
ONCE RESIDED HERE
Jerry Jarnagin, song writer and husband of Irene Franklin, musical comedy actress, who was listed as a suicide Monday after his lifeless body was found in his Hollywood (Cal.) home, was at one time a resident of Atlanta and attended school here.

While a boy, the song writer's parents lived on Morris street, approximately 25 years ago. He attended Atlanta public schools for four or five years.

The song writer husband of Irene Franklin, musical comedy actress, for whom he had composed whimsical love lyrics and played accompaniment throughout the country, was found shot to death in his Lake Hollywood drive home last night as dinner guests were about to sit down to the table.

Captain Bert Wallis, of the police homicide squad, said Jarnagin had been morbid since the recent preliminary hearing of Lawrence Thomas, former house boy, on charges of beating Miss Franklin. The song writer was worried also over finances and getting movie employment, Wallis said.

"He was shot by his own gun," Captain Wallis added. "He alone knew where it was hidden under the pillow of his bed."

Dr. A. F. Wagner, Hollywood county autopsy surgeon, announced his autopsy disclosed there were powder burns around the wound in Jarnagin's head. This, Dr. Wagner asserted, definitely established that the composer took his own life.

The officer said it would have been virtually impossible for an outsider to have entered or left the home without being seen by Miss Franklin or the three dinner guests.

Mrs. Jarnagin had seated her guests at the table last night when she heard the fatal pistol shot. She rushed into the living room and found her husband slumped down in a big chair, dead from a bullet wound in the head.

Police said the pistol was found in another chair. Jarnagin, they said, may have flung the weapon into the chair and the chair been moved away later in the excitement, or the pistol may have been picked up from the floor and tossed in the chair before police arrived.

The guests were Miss Dorothy Watson, of Lake Charles, La., a niece of Miss Franklin, who has been here since last June; Miss Watson's fiancée, William Green, who arrived Saturday from St. Charles, and Mrs. Wally Klein, a friend of the Jarnagins.

Miss Watson was a witness at the July 27 preliminary hearing at which the house boy was held for trial. She testified that Jarnagin testified he became enraged and hit Miss Franklin with a half-gallon wine jug, a telephone and the leg of a telephone stand after a quarrel with Jarnagin.

Captain Wallis said the house boy would be questioned as a matter of formality and to see whether he had any idea as to Jarnagin's motive, but there was no suspicion against the youth.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doped myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little, 564 E. Wheeling St., Lancaster, Ohio.

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TALMADGE PLANS 2 RIPS THIS WEEK

Governor Speaks at Manchester Thursday and Rockmart Saturday.

Governor Talmadge's second of three campaign addresses this week will be made Thursday at Manchester, instead of Wednesday as previously stated.

It was published Sunday that the Manchester speech was to be made Wednesday and it brought a frantic appeal from the committee in charge of the program to get an immediate correction.

"Tell the papers to be sure to print that your speech here is Thursday," the committee informed the governor. "We are expecting thousands of visitors here by daylight Thursday morning, but if the papers don't get the date correctly we will have them here Wednesday and Manchester is not big enough to hold all we are expecting."

The governor opened his week's activities Monday night at Decatur and will conclude them with a speech Saturday at Rockmart.

As the governor prepared for his three addresses, the most he has made in any one week since he opened his re-election campaign, his opponents continued their attacks on him. Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Cartersville, continuing his speaking tour in north Georgia and Ed A. Gilliam campaigning in the western section of the state.

Judge Pittman will speak at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Douglasville, the speech preceding the fourteenth game of a baseball series between Douglasville and Buford. Former Sheriff A. S. Barrett will be in charge of the Pittman program and Alpha Fowler, former state senator, will introduce the candidate.

The Talmadge opposition was speeded up Monday with another statement from organized labor attacking the governor, this one from O. E. Petry, Atlanta, secretary of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

"In an effort to defend his position in attacking the president," Petry's statement said, "Governor Talmadge has appealed the workers of the state through the press. He distorts his own actions and follows his usual custom in this contrived misstatements of the facts."

"The governor attempts to deceive the people of Georgia into believing that the appointment of the Georgia relief commission was his own thought and action. The facts are that the federal government compelled him to appoint the commission to stop the misuse of federal relief funds."

"Governor Talmadge has been using relief money to pay extra salaries to members of his own staff. They were already receiving full-time salaries from the state treasury, while the unfortunate people who were being forced to work for as low as 5 cents an hour."

"One of the first official acts of Mr. Nance (A. Steve Nance, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades) and other members of the commission was to eliminate the starvation wage of a nickel an hour insisted by the governor and substituted a minimum of 30 cents per hour in accordance with the recovery program of the president."

"Governor Talmadge now denies that he favored 5 cents an hour, but the official records, together with the testimony of the thousands of citizens who were abused by his policy and the merchants of Georgia who cashed their beggarly food orders know the truth despite his denial."

"When relief administrators in rural counties requested permission to pay $1 per day, this was denied and the rate was cut to a nickel an hour."

"Appointment of Huie. Petry said the governor stated he put Ben T. Huie, of Atlanta, on the public service commission 'because he wanted a representative of labor on the commission.'"

"The governor deliberately fails to state that Mr. Huie is not, and never has been, connected with the organized labor movement and was at the time of his appointment a city alderman in Atlanta and stumped the state for the governor," Petry said.

"The governor insinuates that he did organized labor a favor by refusing requests for troops in two strike situations," the statement continued. "The governor admitted there was no need for troops on either occasion and has much to say about sending A. Steve Nance and Lindley Camp to Rome on one occasion. As far as labor is concerned, Mr. Nance as a leader of the labor movement voluntarily gave his time and services in an effort to settle the difference there. Mr. Camp went as an official of the state."

"Petry said that contrary to statements of the governor, the highway department is required by law to set a wage scale for federal aid roads."

"Governor Talmadge has built a straw-man about negro labor rolling a wheelbarrow for 40 cents an hour while white women are working for less," Petry said. "In the first place, where the code wages of 30 cents are being paid you will find an abundance of white men anxious to do the work and support their families."

"As for the white women in the field and the governor's appeal to race prejudice, let us say that organized labor and the president's recovery program are doing everything for the negro laborer. Nothing, except to oppose viciously and strenuously every effort of the president to help him."

"Governor Talmadge states that 75 per cent of the common labor on all highways is negro labor. That may be true with Whitley and his wage of 10 cents an hour, although the affidavits submitted in United States court against Whitley were from white men. But it is not true on federal aid highways."

"Change Is Hoped For. Governor Talmadge says he is not mad with some of the representatives of organized labor. Neither are we mad—we are just ashamed that Georgia has a governor with no regard for the suffering of our citizens and hope that they will be changed."

The governor received two campaign gifts Monday.

The first was a campaign poster with his picture on it. The poster was drawn and painted by C. R. Elliott, of 680 Formwalt street, a well-known artist. It was presented by the artist's year-old daughter, Bernia Lou Elliott, whom the governor gave a dollar for a new doll.

The second gift of the day was another 550-pound bale of cotton, presented by his friends, Ernest Daniel and W. M. Corbett, well-known farmers of near Millen.

Headquarters of Judge Pittman here made public Monday a letter from four members of railroad brotherhoods at Americus in which they announced that they would not be bound by the brotherhoods' legislative committee which Saturday endorsed Governor Talmadge for re-election and commended him to the voters after having rescinded a previous endorsement of Judge Pittman.

The four signers of the letter made public by Judge Pittman's headquarters were G. A. Boatright, J. A. Hammond, Ernest Pantone and L. J. Sutton.

Atlanta Soap-Box Champion Welcomed Home From Derby

Virgil King, 10-year-old orphan who was awarded a wrist watch for his performance in the All-American soap-box derby at Dayton, Ohio, Sunday, is shown above waving a greeting to friends as he returned to the city Monday. McRae Webb, King's mechanic and escort, is shown standing on the steps of the train which brought them back to Atlanta. Staff photo.

Having experienced the thrill of a lifetime in racing before 50,000 spectators in the annual All-American soap box derby at Dayton, Ohio, Virgil King, 10-year-old orphan boy, who won the Atlanta derby sponsored jointly by The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company, returned home Monday.

Young King drove a great race in his Cragar AX 1. He finally was eliminated in a fast semi-final event. He was awarded a wrist watch for his performance.

Accompanied by his mechanic and escort, McRae Webb, a young Atlanta friend, Virgil received an enthusiastic welcome at the Terminal station. All expenses of the trip were paid by The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company and provided a memorable week-end for the two youngsters.

Joe M. Harrell Jr., the other Atlanta entrant, is driving back. Harrell finished second in the fastest heat ever recorded in the national event. His prize was a silver loving cup. Harrell won the Blue Flame race in the Atlanta derby and was sent to the national derby by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

His Blue Flame racing car, modeled after a Miller racing machine, was the sensation of the national derby. It was the only machine selected by judges for exhibition at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The Atlanta boys made a creditable showing in their first national race and at the same time had the time of their young lives as guests of The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company.

HIT BY Trolley Car, Man, 55, Badly Hurt
Thomas S. Love, 55, of 179 Cain street, was seriously injured Monday night when he was struck by an out-bound south Decatur street car at Washington and Hunter streets.

At Grady hospital, where Love was taken for observation in a semi-conscious condition, he was said to be suffering from a possible fractured skull.

According to police reports, Love was crossing the intersection against a red light when he was struck by the car, operated by W. F. Dial. He was taken to the hospital by two detectives who were in the vicinity.

CHARTER CHANGES SOUGHT IN COUNCIL ON TVA PROPOSAL

the company's regulate rate, and $1,077,000, as compared with the company's special inducement rate.

The council sent to the joint consideration of the two committees on motion of Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, author of the original measure and a candidate for mayor, a proposed constitutional amendment allowing cities to issue bonds to construct, acquire or contract for electrical and power plants to be backed only by the properties thus acquired and not charged against the bonded indebtedness of such municipality.

It also asked the two committees to consider a measure designed to provide a charter amendment allowing Atlanta to contract for TVA power.

A third resolution providing $1,000 for services of an engineer to survey the city and estimate the costs of instituting a distributing system was sent to the finance committee for consideration.

Other Action Taken.
Among other outstanding action of council was the following:

1. Overrode observation of L. Key's veto to a resolution hiking the base pay of L. Glenn Dewberry from $225 a month to $250.

2. Set up a committee composed of Aldermen J. Glen Bailey and Councilmen Max M. Caba and Aubrey Milam to take steps to secure the inoculation and licensing of the 45,000 dogs in Atlanta against rabies. Halley sold council that only 2,600 have been licensed thus far this year and that the others are a menace to the safety of citizens.

3. Approved a resolution offered by Councilman H. Turner Loehr asking the Georgia legislature to exempt cities and counties from paying the state tax on fuel business and trucks used in official business.

4. Sent to the finance committee requests for four additional salary adjustments.

5. Established a committee of five engineers to make a survey of city plants with a view of effecting economies in fuel consumption.

Barrett Attacks Committee. Alderman Ellis Barrett attacked the finance committee for failing to report on the salary adjustments which had been referred to it.

"I don't charge the finance committee with politics, but it looks like it to me," Barrett contended. "We have raised a lot of people and have allowed raises to pass this body, but when others are offered, the finance committee fails to bring a recommendation to this council."

It was following this attack that Milam told the council the financial plight of the city in which he asserted the "city faces a real deficit and every year we make in the future, in my opinion, will increase the deficit."

20 CHILDREN TO TAKE PARALYSIS VACCINE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—(AP) Dr. John A. Kolmer, Temple University professor who claims discovery of a vaccine to prevent infantile paralysis, said today he plans to try it upon 20 children, including his own two sons.

Deluged with requests for supplies of the vaccine from physicians over the country, Dr. Kolmer refused them until further vaccinations have been tried. Thus far he and his technical assistant, Miss Anna M. Rule, have been vaccinated.

Two monkeys will be necessary for each child to be tested, he explained. In each case blood will be taken from the child and will be injected, with some paralysis virus, into a monkey.

"If the monkey does contract the disease," Dr. Kolmer said, "it will indicate that the child's blood contains anti-bodies which counteracted the effect of the virus and that the child is already naturally immune to the disease."

If the monkey does contract the disease then the child will be vaccinated. The second monkey will then be used for a test after the vaccination to see if the vaccination took.

If the injection of the child's blood and the live virus into the monkey does not result in a case of the disease in the monkey it will indicate that the desired antibodies have been formed in the child as a result of the vaccination.

Replying to the criticism of Dr. Lloyd Aycock, director of research of the Harvard infantile paralysis commission, who said that a large proportion of persons are normally immune to see if the vaccination took, Dr. Kolmer said, "We cannot permit many children to die just because some of them might be immune without vaccination." He reiterated his faith in the safety of the vaccine if "properly prepared and administered."

Wife Says Kosloff Kept Women in Home
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Theodore Kosloff, Russian film actor, was charged in a divorce suit today with having brought other women into his home to live.

Kosloff's wife, Alexandra, named two women, Vera Fredora and another only as "Kosloff's flower." Some time prior to 1916 Mrs. Kosloff charged her husband with infidelity with Miss Fredora, went on numerous trips with her and from 1921 to 1928 insisted she live at their home.

The dancing master brought "Kosloff's flower" into their home on May 31 and insisted that she live there, Mrs. Kosloff alleged.

"He has adopted the practice of always having two or three women about him whom he calls his 'secretaries' and upon whom he lavishes community funds," the complaint charged.

Mrs. Kosloff asked $500 a month for the support of herself and a 22-year-old daughter pending trial of the suit. She requested a receiver be appointed to safeguard community property.

INDUSTRY, ADMINISTRATION GET TEXTILE CHALLENGE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A blunt ultimatum came today from union leaders in charge of a projected general textile strike that they would initiate no peace overtures and that "the next move is up to the industry or the administration."

"We have never got anything out of these conferences yet," added Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America and chairman of the strike committee.

He said organization work was being speeded in preparation for the walkout. The strike leaders established headquarters here, with regional offices in Providence, R. I.; Cohasset, N. H.; Philadelphia and Greenville, South Carolina.

The first move contemplated, Gorman said, was a conference with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. A request will be made of him for trained organizers to be sent into the strike areas. Financial support also will be solicited from A. F. of L. organizations.

Concern of the union officials over lack of a "wild card" to finance a protracted walkout was lessened somewhat by unofficial reiteration at federal emergency relief headquarters that penniless and hungry strikers would be provided for on a case-by-case basis, unless the labor department should declare the strike unjust.

Cotton mill workers in Alabama, who have been on strike for several weeks, have been receiving aid from relief agencies there.

Administration leaders meanwhile were reported today to be attempting to draft some compromise plan to submitted to employers and the union.

HOW CHRYSLER MOTORS PROTECTS

THE TIME PAYMENT BUYER

WHEN you buy a car on "time payments" you want a finance service that assures you courtesy, consideration and adequate insurance protection at the lowest possible cost. Such a service is offered to you in the Official Chrysler Motors-Commercial Credit Plan of automobile financing.

But how are you going to know when you are getting low cost financing with adequate insurance protection?

If you will apply the rule in the box at the right, you can tell to a penny, how much financing costs you under any plan. It is then a simple matter to see which car has the fairest and most reasonable financing charges.

When you buy a car on the Official Chrysler Motors-Commercial Credit Plan your finance arrangements are backed by the experience and resources of the $40,000,000 Commercial Credit Company. This Company is one of the pioneers in installment financing. It employs more than 1800 trained people and has 142 offices and subsidiaries in the United States and Canada. It has financed nearly $3,500,000,000 of various receivables.

Every car bought on our Official Plan is adequately insured against the hazards of fire, theft and collision. You receive an insurance policy written by one of the largest and soundest old line companies—giving you the necessary protection that you should have.

Compare financing charges and you will find that you can finance the purchase of a Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler car as reasonably as you can any car. Investigate the finance company and you will find that none is more secure or more considerate of the buyer than Commercial Credit Company.

We urge you to find out what financing costs before you buy any car. Use the rule in the box. It is printed for your convenience and in keeping with the Chrysler Motors policy of open-and-above-board dealing on this important matter.

PAY NO MORE
for financing than the Official Chrysler Motors-Commercial Credit Plan calls for.

Check Cost This Way:
1. Write here the amount your dealer asks as down payment (this may include trade-in value of an old car). $.....
2. Write here the total of all monthly payments required. $.....
3. Add the two figures above. Their sum is the total cost of car including financing and insurance. $.....
4. Write here the cash delivered price of the car. $.....
5. Subtract amount No. 4 from amount No. 3 above. The result is the total cost of financing, including insurance. $.....

Then—compare this cost with the finance cost under the Official Chrysler Motors-Commercial Credit Plan, and pay no more for the financing of your car purchase.

RECAPITULATION.
Since the start of this vertebrate animal summary some weeks ago, we have discussed two of the five classes of vertebrates. The fishes and the amphibians have been covered, not in any detail, but in short talks about typical forms. We learned that fins are the sole distinguishing features of fishes, and that smooth skins are characteristic of the amphibians. Of course these marks of identification could be multiplied ad infinitum, should we turn this column into a clearing house for anatomical details, which neither interest nor concern us greatly at the present. That sort of thing I reserve for nights and the dissecting table.

Now we are preparing to take up another great vertebrate class, the reptiles. It is through this class that the other two classes, birds and mammals, trace their ancestry to more primitive vertebrates. In taking up this class, I want to present first the modern reptiles, sticking in the main to Georgia species with a few notes on reptiles of other regions. I then plan to show the derivation of the modern species from those of Mesozoic time, when the world knew the dominance of the dinosaurs. From the primitive reptiles we will return to modern animals and show the kinship of each group of those reptiles.

The term reptile comes from the Latin verb meaning to creep, hence, any creeping thing. This is unfortunately loose in actual meaning, for caterpillars creep, but popular imagination of the group is so clear that we need not bother over the exact derivation. We understand reptiles to be those back-boned animals, with or without limbs, whose bodies are clothed either in scales or bony plates, but which in every case lack fins.

Fish have scales also, but their appendages are fins. Reptiles never have fins, limbs, when present, being fundamentally like those of other animals.

There have been many scientists who devised schemes of classification of the reptiles. Separation into subclasses has been based on many various anatomical characters, but there are four pretty obvious groups which Mississippi Killed.

TOPEKA, Miss., Aug. 20.—(P)—Robert Gryder, 31, was killed Tuesday morning north of here last night when his automobile left Highway No. 45 on the levee and turned over.

We shall discuss. There is that group that includes the alligator, there is the group that is composed of turtles, there is another group for the snakes and lizards, which in turn is subdivided into smaller groups for those particular forms. We will begin in the morning with our Georgia "gator," too well known for description, but we will say some interesting things about his relatives.

Man Put Under Bond In Liquor Smuggling

Sam Goldberg, alleged to be a liquor smuggler of large operations, was held in $20,000 bonds by United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Monday on his release from the federal prison, where he had served a term for prohibition law violation. Goldberg was wanted by Norfolk and Baltimore federal authorities, who charge him with smuggling liquor into the United States. They asked that his bonds be fixed at $50,000. Goldberg was committed to the DeKalb county jail, and was said to be trying to arrange for his bonds.

First Loan Recorded For Home Remodeling

The first loan for repair and remodeling of a home under the federal housing administration to be recorded in Georgia was consummated Monday, according to Paul Bowles, manager of the Peachtree and North avenue branch of the First National bank, who handled the negotiation.

M. S. Mentzer, regional manager for the Shubaker Corporation, obtained the loan on his home at 1115 Lullwater road. The amount of the loan was not revealed.

Some days ago the FHA, planning to release large sums for the repair of homes and other buildings, appealed to the banks to aid and the four Atlanta Clearing House banks pledged full co-operation. In the deal Monday Mr. Bowles represented the banks, and Herman Jones Jr., assisted.

MAN CAUGHT IN CHASE BOUND OVER BY U. S.

Thomas J. Jordan, alias P. E. Parks, who was arrested on human circle Monday afternoon after his car was rammed into an embankment, was bound over in $2,000 bond by United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Monday on a charge of possessing liquor on which no federal tax was paid. There were five cases in his car, officers said.

W. M. Paradise, a revenue operator, followed Jordan's car from Peachtree and Sixteenth streets to Inman circle, where he overtook it. He said he jumped on the running board and tried to get the switch keys, but that Jordan pushed him off. He fell and sprained his ankle. W. L. Hutto, another operator, had gone chase to Jordan, whose car ran into an embankment and was wrecked. Jordan was not hurt.

HERBERT PORTER BACK AFTER EUROPEAN TOUR

Herbert Porter, manager of the Atlanta Georgian and Sunday American, will be welcomed back to Atlanta today by the Civitan Club, of which he is a prominent member. He is to be the guest of honor at the club's regular weekly luncheon to be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 o'clock.

Mr. Porter, accompanied by Mrs. Porter, has been on a European tour of six weeks, visiting England, France and Germany. At today's Civitan meeting he will be given a welcome by Dr. Willis W. Memminger, the principal speaker.

In discussing his trip abroad Mr. Porter said that from his observations, trade and economic conditions in general seem to be improved and more hopeful. He sailed aboard the Leviathan and returned aboard the Manhattan, both ships of the United States Line.

PITTMAN'S CHARGES DENIED BY SWINT

Superintendent and Nurse at State Hospital Give Affidavits on Laundry Expense.

The state board of control Monday made public affidavits by Dr. R. C. Swint, superintendent of the Milledgeville state hospital, and Mrs. Yashti Gerhardt, nurse in charge of female patients, refuting charges of Judge Claude C. Pittman, of Cartersville, one of Governor Eugene Talmadge's opponents for re-election, that patients of the hospital are forced to pay for their laundry.

In their affidavits the two officials of the institution explained the cause mentioned by Judge Pittman in his campaign speeches, by showing that the husband of the woman mentioned by the candidate had agreed to pay for the laundry because he wanted his wife to use her own clothing instead of the clothing provided by the state.

The affidavit of Dr. Swint follows:

Georgia, Baldwin County.
Before me, a notary public in and for the county of Baldwin and state of Georgia, comes Dr. R. C. Swint, superintendent of the Milledgeville state hospital, who, under oath, makes the following affidavit: My attention having been called to the publication of a copy of letter written by me July 24, 1934, to Mr. Paul Goodwin, Route 1, Box 2, Griffin, Ga., and that some misunderstanding obtains because Mr. Goodwin was requested to remit $1.50 for laundry for his wife, Mrs. Emma Goodwin, for the month of June.

The $1.50 requested was to pay the private washerwoman of Mrs. Emma Goodwin, wife of Mr. Paul Goodwin. This private washerwoman was employed because of the personal request of Mr. Paul Goodwin to Mrs. Gerhardt, graduate nurse in charge of ward-hospital of the Milledgeville state hospital, the ward to which Mrs. Emma Goodwin was admitted on May 23, 1934.

According to statement and affidavit of Mrs. Yashti D. Gerhardt, Mr. Paul Goodwin requested that his wife be allowed to wear her personal clothing and that he would provide such clothing as she might need instead of the clothing furnished the inmates by the state hospital.

The custom of allowing relatives or friends of inmates of the hospital—when they request it—to provide clothing and a private washerwoman has been in practice to my personal knowledge, for 22 years, and this is the first instance that I recall of this type of complaint.

Furthermore, unless some relative or friend makes the request to provide clothing and a private washerwoman, the hospital provides all clothing and laundry while in charge and this rule and practice, I presume, has been in practice since 1912 when the institution became entirely free to all bona fide resident citizens of the state who are admitted for treatment. Also there has been no recent rule or practice changing the above rule as to furnishing clothing and laundry to the inmates under treatment in the hospital.

The inmates of the hospital, or family or friends of any inmate may furnish extra or additional food or other comforts at their own expense under such rules and regulations as the board of trustees may prescribe. See Sec. 3 page 164, act 1918, R. C. SWINT.

Superintendent Milledgeville State Hospital.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th day of August, 1934.

Notary Public Baldwin County Georgia.

Mrs. Gerhardt's affidavit follows:

Georgia, Baldwin County.

Personally appeared before me, a notary public in and for the county of Baldwin and state of Georgia, Mrs. Yashti D. Gerhardt, who on oath states that she is a registered nurse employed by the Milledgeville state hospital as head nurse in charge of reception ward No. 1 for white females of said hospital.

She certifies that on May 23, 1934, Mrs. Emma Goodwin was admitted to said ward as a patient from Spalding County, Georgia, she further certifies that the said Emma Goodwin was accompanied by her husband, Paul T. Goodwin. She further certifies that in personal conversation with her on the said May 23, 1934, the date of admission of the said Emma Goodwin into the said Milledgeville state hospital, the said Paul T. Goodwin stated that it was his wish and desire that his wife, the said Emma Goodwin, be allowed to wear her own clothing rather than use such clothing as is regularly furnished the inmates by the said hospital. She further certifies that the said Paul T. Goodwin stated that he wished his wife, the said Emma Goodwin, to have private laundry, and other extras not furnished by the state.

The said Mrs. Yashti D. Gerhardt further certifies, that she explained to the said Paul T. Goodwin that where patients wore their own clothing it was best to employ a private washerwoman, as, if the clothing was sent to the state laundry it would have to be marked with the ward number, and would run the risk of being misplaced or lost. She further certifies that this fact was thoroughly understood by the said Paul T. Goodwin, and he, the said Paul T. Goodwin, stated he would furnish funds monthly to cover the expense of the private washerwoman, as he wished his wife, the said Emma Goodwin, to wear her own clothing.

NRA CODES CALLED DETIMENT TO LABOR

INTERNATIONAL PALLS, Minn., Aug. 20.—(P)—Asserting that the codes under which most of labor is now working "were written by industry and for industry," George W. Lawson, of St. Paul, secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, presented his report as the 52nd annual convention of that organization opened today.

"The codes," said Secretary Lawson, "were drafted by employers' organizations. They are not, as many people thought a year ago, labor codes. They are industrial codes, written by industry and for industry."

TWO BANDITS SOUGHT IN ATTACK ON STUDENT

DeKalb county police Monday were seeking two negroes who late Sunday night attacked and robbed Willard Field, Georgia Tech Junior, and left him lying unconscious on South Candler road.

Young Field, son of Professor Floyd Field, dean of men at Tech, was on route home, he told police, when two negroes blocked the road, and then jumped on his running board as he slowed up to prevent hitting them. He fought with them, but was knocked unconscious. When he regained consciousness three hours later, his car, watch and a small amount of money were missing. Field was under the care of a physician Monday for a deep scalp wound.

TO THE GASOLINE USERS OF ATLANTA

IT'S only natural for you to think the regular gasoline you are using is the best you can buy. But there's no particular point in arguing that now.

For, just recently a new regular gas has been created that is unlike anything ever before produced. So much so that we had to build the world's newest, biggest and most modern refining unit and adapt an entirely new refining process to create it!

It is called "New-Action" Orange AMERICAN GAS. It has a brand new SUSTAINING* POWER that's "built-in".

It's different in every way a gasoline can be different—in anti-knock—surfer power—reader acceleration—easier riding—quicker starting—and lower mileage cost.

As a user of regular gas, you owe it to yourself to try "New-Action" Orange AMERICAN GAS and know how different it is from any regular gas you've ever used. It's sold at regular gas price from Maine to Florida and inland.

*SUSTAINING POWER—the retaining of efficiency between refinery and road performance.

TALMADGE LAUBED FOR AID TO F. D. R.

Judge Frank Harwell, at Decatur, Predicts Overwhelming Victory.

Overwhelming re-election of Governor Eugene Talmadge on his record was predicted Monday night by Judge Frank Harwell, of Decatur, former member of the court of appeals, in introducing the governor for his DeKalb county speech.

Speaking as the president of the DeKalb County Roosevelt Club of 1932, Judge Harwell praised the chief executive for his co-operation with President Roosevelt's recovery program.

Judge Harwell's speech, introducing the governor, follows:

"It has been expected that Judge James C. Davis, recently appointed by the governor as judge of the superior court of the Stone Mountain circuit, would introduce the speaker of the occasion, but the death of Judge Davis has made it impossible for him to be here. This he regrets, for it would have been a great pleasure to him to perform this duty. I have been asked to act in his stead and I give me pleasure to perform this service."

"First, let me say a word personal to this county and the governor. We claim the governor as part-time resident of DeKalb. In 1905, when he was a young man just out of college, the governor fixed his residence in DeKalb and it was in this county that he cast his first ballot in an election. When he was elected commissioner of agriculture he moved from Telfair county to DeKalb and made his home here all during his term as commissioner of agriculture; and when he was elected governor it was from his adopted county of DeKalb that he moved to the governor's mansion. We therefore claim him as an adopted son of DeKalb county. Naturally, he feels a great interest in this county and its people and it would please him very much to see DeKalb in the Talmadge column on September 12, along with some 150 or more other Talmadge counties in Georgia."

"Moreover, when he had an appointment to make on September 12, but upon the record of his accomplishment in a short two-year term. And I say to you that, measured by the results achieved, no other governor in my recollection has made any such record, a record of accomplishment for the benefit of the people. It has been a hard fight to reduce taxes, the license taxes on automobiles, telephones, electric rates and railroad rates. He has had to fight against the corporate interests who employ him, but he has won out, and the last reduction of 18 per cent on certain commodity rates has been accepted by the railroads and they have withdrawn or will withdraw their fight in the courts. He has had to use the big stick, but I am of the opinion that he never could have obtained results in any other way on account of the innumerable delays in courts, which

Big Crowd Grets Talmadge in First 'Metropolitan' County

Here's a part of the great crowd, estimated between 10,000 and 12,000 persons, which heard governor Talmadge at the DeKalb county courthouse in Decatur Monday night when he made his first bid for a lawyers know so well how to manipulate. But you note one fact, that he has on appeal been sustained by the higher courts. He ought not to have had opposition. He has not been in office quite two years and I want to see the law amended to make the governor's term four years, a law the governor is now advocating.

Metropolitan county. After the address the governor polled his crowd and found it more than 95 per cent for his re-election. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

"I am an ardent friend of the president and a believer in him, and I was president of the DeKalb County Roosevelt Club for President. I think the president is a sincere man and sincerely for the 'forgotten man,' but I resent the efforts of the Pittmanites to put forth the bogus claim that they are the chosen people of Israel and their attempt to ride into office on the president's coattails. And the statement given out from the White House the other day that the president is not taking sides in any local campaign, as Earl Camp, of the Walton Tribune, says: 'Cannot be otherwise considered than as a flat and unequivocal repudiation of the opposition's reprehensible tactics, and warning to them to turn loose the president's coattails.'"

"Called Their Hand." "The opposition has been trying to convey the impression that the far-tervillie candidate was the choice of the national administration, but in giving out the White House statement, the president has called their bluff and notified them in effect to quit sailing under false pretenses. As Mr. Camp says: 'They have overlooked the essential fact that many of the president's best friends and most ardent supporters in Georgia are likewise warm friends and supporters of Governor Talmadge.'"

"Governor Talmadge has been doing the things President Roosevelt advocated; legislating for the benefit of the masses of the people; lowering the burden of taxation; reducing the cost of government; requiring the great public service corporations to charge reasonable rates."

"In my judgment the president and the governor are fighting the same hand and the president is giving privilege and to secure better things for the average man in so far as legislation can do so."

"The plain people of Georgia are not going to repudiate the man who has done so much for them in so short a time—their real friend. Labor is not going to go back on their real friend. Have you noted the fact that on Saturday four railroad brotherhoods passed resolutions endorsing the candidacy of Governor Talmadge and commending him to their membership? I look for Governor Talmadge to sweep the state. The great crowds which have attended his meetings can mean but one thing and that is his overwhelming election and I am of the opinion that a show of hands here tonight would show this immense crowd overwhelmingly for the governor. I take pleasure in introducing to you the governor of Georgia and also your governor for the next two years."

Introduced by Harwell.

The governor was introduced by Judge Frank Harwell, of Decatur, former member of the state court of appeals, who substituted for Superior Court Judge James C. Davis, who was called to New Jersey by the death of his sister.

Judge Harwell never was permitted to finish his address.

As he proceeded with his introduction there were shouts for Governor Talmadge. As the judge went on the chorus rose and within a few minutes it became a deafening roar. The judge yielded to the will of the crowd, cut his presentation short and permitted the governor to take up his address.

"Governor Talmadge not only has carried out his every campaign pledge, but he has made a record unequalled by any other governor in the history of Georgia," Judge Harwell said. "His re-election is assured. The only question remaining is the extent of the Talmadge landslide."

The Monday night meeting was sponsored jointly by the DeKalb division of the Young Democrats of Georgia and the DeKalb County Talmadge Club. With Baxter Gentry, president of the former organization, and Ben Forkner, president of the Talmadge Club, dividing the task of master of ceremonies.

After calling his hearers' attention to the fact that he first registered, voted and assumed his duties of citizenship in Decatur, and declaring that when he lived in the county he never dreamed he would be governor, the chief executive launched into a study of his administration and told the crowd what he has done since he was governor.

"In coming out to speak to you people of Decatur and DeKalb county, it brings back a flood of memories to me," he declared.

"The first time I ever registered to vote in my life was here in your courthouse in Decatur."

"The first vote that I ever cast was in DeKalb county, at South Kirkwood."

"At that time I was a young man, just out of college, practicing law in Atlanta."

"I did not stay in Atlanta but one year. The call of the country was in my blood, and I went to south Georgia, and there had the double task of practicing law and farming."

"When I lived in this county in my youth, I never dreamed that I would be governor of the state and campaigning here for re-election."

"But such is the case, and I want the opposition that the electric power reduction was brought about by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

"The distinguished fellow townsman of yours has been going about the state charging that this reduction was brought about by the TVA."

"He said, waving two newspapers at his audience. 'Here's The Atlanta Constitution and The Journal of November 30, 1933, ordering the lowered rates into effect January 1, 1934.'"

"As soon as the new Georgia rate went into effect, the TVA sent an expert to the public service commission's office to study it and when the TVA found out what a fair rate it was it adopted it in toto. That's what the TVA did with the rates your public service commission set up."

Halted by Heckler.

The governor was halted at one time by a heckler who accused the public service commission of not fixing new commodity rates for the railroads, but the chief executive countered with the statement that commodity rates were to be lowered.

The governor said his heckler was "an employee of the Atlanta Journal" and in answering him said that "it does not make any difference what I say or do the Journal will distort it to suit themselves and still be against Talmadge."

Chief Parker, of the DeKalb county police, hastened to the heckler's side but at Governor Talmadge's direction he was permitted to ask his questions although there were hundreds of shouts from the crowd to "throw him out."

"Bill Sly" and Rates.

The governor said he has been expecting "Bill Sly Howard" to claim that the freight rate reduction which went into effect Monday would be credited to the TVA.

You know, folks, when the Talmadge administration does anything good along a rate line the opposition claims the TVA did it," he said, laughing. "I suppose in a day or two they'll be claiming the TVA gave the shippers reasonable freight rates and that the TVA cut the telephone bills."

The people of DeKalb county have been on to Sly Bill Howard and his kind for a long, long time," he went on. "Sly Bill used to be able to fool them, but he can't any more. The people think for themselves now."

Introduced by Harwell.

The governor was introduced by Judge Frank Harwell, of Decatur, former member of the state court of appeals, who substituted for Superior Court Judge James C. Davis, who was called to New Jersey by the death of his sister.

"When I lived in this county in my youth, I never dreamed that I would be governor of the state and campaigning here for re-election."

"But such is the case, and I want to talk to you tonight about the issues of this campaign.

"An official asking for an endorsement term should make the appeal on his own record, and not the shortcomings and faults of his opponent."

"Two years ago, I campaigned over Georgia, advocating the reduction of taxes, the payment of the back indebtedness of our school teachers and Confederate pensioners, and a flat rate of $3 for every automobile, truck and bus tag in Georgia, control of the highway department, and the reduction of war-time utility rates."

"Demagogue" Charge.

"At that time, the opposition hurled at me from every stump in Georgia, and from scores of speakers, that these campaign promises were the words of a demagogue, and would be forgotten as soon as the election was over."

"The governor of our state makes the ad valorem levy for state purposes. The constitution of the state limits this levy to 5 mills."

"For the past 30 years, every governor before me has levied the limit of 5 mills for state purposes."

"Last year for the first time since John B. Gordon was governor the governor of Georgia has reduced the state ad valorem taxes 20 per cent and we have a flat rate of 4 mills for state purposes. This year I also made a levy of 4 mills for state purposes."

"The savings here in DeKalb county to the taxpayers of this county on this reduction of ad valorem taxes last year and this year amount to approximately $65,000 that was left in the pockets of the taxpayers."

"All of you are familiar with the changes that have been made in the highway department."

The overhead expenses of that department have been reduced $2,000,000 and the highway commissioners have paid cash as they go—and have saved up $2,000,000 to pay the Confederate pensioners and school teachers."

"This does not mean that the money was taken from building roads and bridges, and maintaining the roads, but that this much has been saved from an overhead organization."

"With this saving, the highway department has built more roads, more bridges and the maintenance work in the state has been better than at any time since its creation."

"Too many people can't do a good job at anything. They get in each other's way."

"If you want the best work done, have a job that keeps everyone on their toes to keep up with it."

"I am proud to say that the highway department this year has been able to make contracts with DeKalb county for grading roads in your county, helping keep up your county, and helping to hold down your tax levies for county purposes."

Convict Care Sought.

"The policy of the highway department in making contracts with DeKalb county to help take care of its convicts, hold down county expenses, has also been followed with practically all counties in the state."

"This cannot be done with a minimum wage scale of 40 cents per hour for common labor on the roads. In fact, no one wants a negro who shows dirt and rolls a wheelbarrow to get 40 cents per hour out of our tax money."

"The opposition does not even want it."

"If Talmadge had been bluffing and bulldozed into approving such a thing, he would have been 'cussed' by the taxpayers from the mountains to the sea."

"If 40 cents per hour minimum wage scale had been set up, instead of the highway department having $2,000,000 now saved up, it would have been deep in debt, and few roads built."

"Tax money should be paid out by the prevailing wage scale in the community where the work is done."

"This is the rule of the present highway department, and is going to stay the rule as long as I am governor of Georgia."

"Only a few people can work on our roads and we don't want to offer a premium rate and demoralize private industry."

"Thousands of white girls and boys, white men and women here in DeKalb county, and all over the state of Georgia do not get 40 cents per hour for their hard toil. Let, they help to pay the taxes."

capital of the state was at Louisville, Ga. At that time no one dreamed that we would ever have automobiles in this world."

"The mode of travel at that time was horseback, ox carts and stage coaches."

"Wise Law" Written.

"Those old patriots wrote a wise law. It has been lying there on the statute books with the dust and mildew of a century, and never used but once before, which was shortly after the war."

"But when we called on those old dry bones, they stood up and walked, and carried out that campaign pledge of mine."

"The executive order placing the $3 tag into effect was only a suspension of the balance due for the taxes until the next legislature meets."

"If the next legislature, which convenes next January, does not approve this executive order, inspectors, bailiffs and constables will be running all over the state collecting back that $3,800,000 from the people."

"The opposition says that they are in favor of a $2 or a $3 tag."

"Whenever an indefinite statement is made, and too many ifs and ors put in it, you had better not attach too much credence to it."

"This $3,800,000 would provide thousands of jobs, and some politicians think that the creation of jobs to be paid out of tax money is the exemplification of patriotism."

"In fact, the foundation of all this opposition to me is those who want to pay the payroll of the state of Georgia with a useless job, and they know old Eugene Talmadge won't let them be there."

Road Department Changes.

"All of you are familiar with the changes that have been made in the highway department."

opposition was sure to come.

"I also predicted to you that it would come, not as a real issue, but in the form of the scuttie fish, to scander the waters and try to blind and fool the people of this state."

"The silence of the opposition on my action in suspending the five old public service commissioners is what thunders in this campaign."

"What do they try to do? They try to make the people believe that the TVA reduced your light and power bill."

TVA Contract.

"Last week, at a meeting here in the Decatur courthouse, a distinguished lawyer of your county said that the TVA contracted with the Commonwealth & Southern on January 4 of this year to reduce your power and light bills in this county."

If I am showing you two daily papers of Atlanta, Ga., one, the Atlanta Journal, published November 29, 1933, and the other, The Atlanta Constitution, published November 30, 1933, where the Georgia public service commission put on the reductions that you people have enjoyed, and provided that these reductions go into effect on January 1 of this year."

"Not only this: The Georgia Power and Light Company is a corporation controlled by the Commonwealth & Southern. The Georgia Power and Light Company operates in south Georgia, around Valdosta, Bainbridge, Cairo, Thomasville and other towns in that section."

"The TVA did not reduce their bills. The public service commission reduced them."

"They went to the federal courts. Finally, when they were dismissed from the federal courts, three judges of the superior court, in Atlanta, Ga., Hon. Virlyn Moore, E. E. Pomeroy and E. D. Thomas, denied the injunction against this public service commission, and allowed the reductions to go into effect from August 1 of this year in south Georgia."

"The public service commission of Georgia and the three judges of that court received no help. They did not know then that the TVA was in existence."

Savings Are Shown.

Taking a number of electric light bills at random, including those of William Schley Howard, one of the leaders of his opposition, the governor showed the savings that have been made on these bills.

"Right here, I wish to read to you some of the bills of citizens of your county, to show what the reduction amounted to during the first six months of this year, as compared with the first six months of 1933."

"I am a little bit surprised that the opposition has not given the TVA, or Maine, or California, or New Mexico, credit for reducing the telephone bills of this state."

"To whom do they give credit for reducing the passenger rates for the Georgia Railway and Navigation Company per mile to a flat rate of 2 cents per mile?"

"The Georgia public service commission put this order into effect."

"The Georgia public service commission also issued an order abolishing the surcharge on Pullman fares, and Georgia is the only state in the Union where you can now ride in a Pullman car and not be compelled to pay a surcharge on top of your passenger and Pullman car ticket."

The public service commission of Georgia reduced the truck and bus rates 27 per cent, leaving millions of dollars in the pockets of the people of this state."

REHEARING IS SOUGHT FOR ANGELO HERNDON

Preacher Handles Fangless Snake And Stirs Revival to 'Holy' Frenzy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 20.—His neck to demonstrate his faith in the immunity of the "faithful" to harm from serpents.

"Glory be to God! Glory Hallelujah!" rang out the frenzied shouts from the crowd of white and black scores of whom climbed to near-by rooftops and store roofs for a better view of the performance.

Kuykendall did not know that a newsreel man had paid George Lumpkin, the snake's captor, $10 Sunday afternoon before Dotson would agree that he was sufficiently "blessed" for him to handle it.

Fred Lovelock and his wife also handled the fire-foot rattler and danced a renewed frenzy of shouting and dancing from the crowd.

Many of the "followers" started talking incoherently in the "unknown tongue," clapping their hands and dancing about in wild abandon in celebration of the "triumph of faith" over the impotent snake, which they unwittingly thought still in possession of its dangerous fangs.

The snake itself looked sick about it all. It was listless and made no attempt to strike at its handlers. Its rattles were still. The gory operation in which the snake was pulled out with pliers this afternoon left it too weak to struggle.

Two performances were put on, one for the benefit of the newsreel man who engineered the show, and missed it the first time. He was at dinner when the services started half an hour ahead of schedule.

When he returned the lights went out. Apparently the circuit from which the string of unshaded electric bulbs that lighted the scene and the newsreel apparatus drew their current was overloaded.

After the lights went back on Kuykendall led another session of "dancing the snake to harm the faithful." He boasted that the snake refused shouting that no member of the "faithful" could be hurt. The district overseer practically "stole the show" from Dotson, who kept in the background.

Confusion reigned as the services went on. Banjos played as the crowd sang "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Come and Follow Me" and other hymns. When the "power" moved anyone in the audience, he or she arose to glorify the "faith" in incoherent ravings.

Are your child's Eyes O.K.?

School days will soon be here again. Are your children's eyes in good shape?

Tests have shown that one child in five has defective vision. If it is that in most cases parents don't even suspect trouble of that sort. Neither does the child. As a consequence the youngster is backward, for no other reason than defective eyesight.

No parent would intentionally hinder the child's progress in school, but thousands do it, unconsciously.

Be fair to your children. Before school starts, bring them here for a thorough examination. The eyes are as important as other parts of the body.

We make examination and fit glasses, all at one cost.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Suffering

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it's because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonard was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leonard's discovery, so why doubt or delay longer when Jacobs Drug Stores and all druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

FLY, GROUNDED, FLIES TO OBLIVION

Frank Dorbrandt, Alaskan Hero, Turns His Plane Into Thick Fog.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Frank Dorbrandt, noted Alaskan flyer, was missing tonight on an unexplained flight into the Arctic fog.

Dorbrandt was last seen late yesterday after an altercation with local airport officials which resulted in revocation of his license. Allegedly intoxicated, he took off into a fog bank and has not been heard from since.

Dorbrandt landed here yesterday noon en route from Point Barrow via Fairbanks with a trimotor plane.

He carried 11 passengers, one dog and four 50-gallon tanks of gasoline in the cabin. There were only five seats in the plane, the passengers sitting on tanks and luggage with no belts.

The plane, overloaded by 200 pounds, made a "suicide turn" in landing, which nearly catapulted the ship and tossed passengers about the cabin.

Inspector Murray Hall, on the field at the time, grounded the plane and revoked Dorbrandt's license.

Dorbrandt and threatened to shoot Hall if the latter offered interference. Anchorage authorities said.

He returned to the field, unloaded gas tanks from the cabin and took off alone with two one-half hour flights. Before leaving he said: "You'll not see me again."

Dorbrandt was the central figure in several dramatic airplane flights of the north. He rushed serum and anti-toxin to the Eskimos of Eskimoon, stricken with various diseases, and took injured white men to hospitals.

He landed Father Bernard Hubbard, the "glacier priest," inside the smoking volcano, Aniakchak, and was one of the leaders in airplane searches for lost aviators and sailors.

Recently the federal government accused him of smuggling furs into the United States, and in Seattle he fled to appear August 16 to answer to a suit of Marjorie Seller, pretty 19-year-old girl, who charged the flyer was her father of 17-month-old child, Frances Patricia. This case was continued until September 12.

senate if he is returned to that body; demanded that Millican show records of the case where he was fired as special attorney of the municipal court of Atlanta, and that in failing to produce such record, that Millican be branded a "malicious, wilful falsifier of the truth."

Millican countered with the assertion that he never meant to say and did not remember "Sims" was fired, but he did hold the job until the last minute it was possible to do so and when he could hold it no longer, he recommended that it be abolished.

McDuffie Speaking Dates.

All these rallies will begin at 8 o'clock at night. McDuffie said. He will speak at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Palmetto and at 3:30 o'clock at Fairburn.

Sims also scheduled meetings at the same time at Highland Avenue school, Palmetto and Fairburn.

Friends and supporters of Judge Humphries Monday night scheduled the first of a series of meetings in behalf of his candidacy tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. E. Steward, 35 Wakefield drive, N. E.

The committee sponsoring Judge Humphries' re-nomination is headed by Morris Brandon, leading Atlanta attorney, and comprises a large number of leading business and professional men.

Millican Asks Tax Data.
The Millican-Sims school Monday afternoon in the halls of the Atlanta council chamber as Millican succeeded in having a resolution passed directing city tax assessors to prepare a sworn statement of the ad valorem tax assessments of the Gulf Refining Company, by which he is employed, for the years 1930-33, inclusive.

When Millican offered the measure, Alderman Robert Carpenter moved to table it. For several seconds it appeared there would be no second, and then Councilman Joseph E. Berman, Sims' law partner, seconded it. Berman then wanted to speak on the a number of the tax committee some measure, and Millican demanded a vote on the motion to table, insisting that there could be no debate on the motion to table.

Berman then withdrew his second to the motion to table in order to speak on it.

"I don't think the state candidates should run their races before this council," Berman declared. "I don't think there should be a limit on the number of years. (Millican's original resolution provided for the tabulation from 1930-33 and did not carry the notation 'inclusive'). I do not think this is a matter for this council to go into."

Agrees to Change.
"I'll make the change to suit the councilmen," Millican retorted. "I want this council to know that I have not put anything over on it. I was of the years, and council has a right to know about this tax reduction business, about which there has been so much bluff."

The whole matter was a result of an argument between Sims and Millican as to reductions in taxes given the Gulf company. Sims claims the reduction was about 45 per cent, while Millican contends it amounted to approximately 12 per cent.

"Mr. Millican," Millican retorted, "I want this council to know that I have not put anything over on it. I was of the years, and council has a right to know about this tax reduction business, about which there has been so much bluff."

THE SAYINGAME

$1,800 in Cash Prizes!

By THE SAYINGAME EDITOR.
Take your time! That's this department's suggestion to contestants. The last picture of the Sayingame series—No. 80, has been published, but sets do not have to be turned in before midnight—Saturday, September 1. Sets submitted immediately after the publication of Picture No. 80 will not be checked or judged until after the final deadline, midnight, September 1. It is 50 cents a copy, or 54 cents by mail.

Many contestants, sensing that the winners of the 35 attractive prizes are likely to be closely bunched, have planned to give their sets a special touch to recheck their solutions and filling out extra sets, which is permissible under the rules. Pictures and answer-blanks for extra sets may be had at The Constitution circulation department.

Just want to let you know that it is not only the grown folks in our family who are thoroughly enjoying the Sayingame, but the four children look forward with eagerness to seeing the picture every morning. The oldest boy, 8, can name every saying we have selected, and the baby, 3, handles each picture so carefully, and tells what the characters are doing. Mrs. J. G. R. Decatur, Ga.

Questions and Answers
Q.—Please publish through your "Game" column what will be the cost of the set of pictures for the contest. Mrs. A. W. B. Milledgeville, Ga.
A.—The complete series of 80 pictures may now be obtained. The full set is $2, plus 3 cents extra for mailing. If you desire a set of 20 pictures for mailing first class, since that is the amount required to send a complete set first class mail.

Cost of Pictures.
Q.—After I had started on the Sayingame, I left on my vacation. While I was away, several of the pictures were lost, 10 in all. Please advise me just what these pictures will cost to replace. New York, N. Y.
A.—At the rate of 3 cents apiece, or 8 pictures for 30 cents, the 10 pictures would cost 40 cents, plus 3 cents for mailing.

Books Still Available.
Q.—I have decided to get a copy of the record or be stamped a malicious, wilful falsifier of the truth. Succeeded by Middlebrooks.
The fact about this matter is that I resigned prior to December 31, 1922, and on January 1, 1923, Mr. Grover Middlebrooks was appointed as my successor. On January 5, 1923, at a special meeting of the board of commissioners, which was after my resignation had gone into effect and while Mr. Middlebrooks was serving as attorney for the court, a resolution was adopted rescinding the authority of the judge of the court to employ an attorney.

"I don't believe the people of this county will vote for a man whose disregard for the truth and veracity is so pronounced as my opponent has demonstrated his to be."

"He also attacked me for not introducing into the senate bills to raise revenue in connection with the constitutional amendment for the purpose of reducing real estate taxes 50 per cent. Anyone so ignorant as this demonstrates beyond peradventure that he is thoroughly incapable of representing the people in this, the capital district of the state."

"Under the constitution, all bills having for their object the raising of revenue and appropriation of money must originate in the house, and not in the senate."

Sims "Not Mad."
When Sims took the stump, he told the audience, "I am not mad about this case."

At Millican arose he yelled: "I am now asking you if you think he is mad now."

"I do not recall having said I was a product of a reduced showing. Mr. Sims was fired as attorney for the court, but he now admits that he held the office just as long as he could. He says he held it up until the time he was to become mayor of Atlanta, and that he did not find out the job was useless or recommend that it be discontinued until the last minute he could retain it. He says he did not recommend that it be discontinued and that the county attorney perform the services."

"In former addresses, Mr. Sims has said the only thing I have said in this war is to get a gold fish pond built, and then forget to put the fish there. I never remember having promised to put fish there, but if I did not put the fish there, I want to make good. I have brought them here tonight, and they go into that pond just as soon as this meeting is over."

Millican exhibited a small jar with gold fish in it.

Millican then cited a number of improvements "I and my colleagues have procured for the ward."

He referred again to the charges of tax reductions which Sims leveled against him and replied as he had done previously. He hit Sims' charge of a $25,000 "slush fund," asserting: "I am running this race, as I have all others I have made, with my own money and small $5 and $10 donations by my personal friends."

He branded Sims' move to cut ad valorem taxes as "a political bill, which he never intended to succeed in having passed."

Bentley Speaks.
W. R. Bentley, running to succeed Luther Sims as a member of the legislature, also spoke, saying he would offer bills to make it a felony to hand out cards to prospective voters on election day, and also to carry voters to polls in cars furnished by candidates. He also asserted he would favor a $3,000 homestead exemption for citizens of the state to protect small home-owners and wage earners.

J. V. Poole, opposing Judge Humphries, also spoke, bidding for nomination on the grounds that he would show grand jury full authority.

Bond Almond, William G. McRae and Tom C. Morris, running to succeed the late George A. Kerkford, asked for votes, the feature of their talks being a demand by Morris for others in his bracket to take a stand on abolition of the state prohibition laws.

"When they voted to cut out the revenue from liquor, take local option away from us and put the liquor traffic into the hands of bootleggers, they didn't ask us about it."

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two hundred fifty striking FERA workers charged a squad of deputy sheriffs who arrested a woman at a Lincoln park project this afternoon, but were routed when officers met them with tear gas, nightsticks and fists.

CAR KILLS NEGRO BOY; DEATHS MOUNT TO 34

Another name was added to the growing list of automobile fatalities Monday afternoon when C. D. Matthis, 8-year-old negro boy, of 608 Fraser street, died at Grady hospital as the result of a fractured skull received during the afternoon when he was struck down by an automobile near his home.

According to police reports the boy was rolling a wheel down the sidewalk on Fraser street between Crumley and Glenn streets, and the wheel rolled into the street. He ran out for it and was struck down by a car driven by Jerre Jenkins, negro, of 383 Fraser street.

The death of the negro boy brings the total number of deaths from automobile accidents within the city limits to 34 since January 1, and boosts the total for August to 4.

The accident occurred at 2:20 p. m. and the boy died at Grady about an hour later. Police who investigated booked a case of reckless driving against Jenkins and set the hearing for 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Three persons were injured Monday morning when the car in which they were riding, driven by H. D. Sellers, 551 Boulevard, S. E., overturned against a pole after a collision with a car driven by C. A. Meyers, 61 Johnson road. The accident occurred at Howell Mill road and Tenth street.

Sellers, Pierce Lysinger, 606 Boulevard, S. E.; and Miss Margaret Barrow, 22, of 1115 Lucile avenue, S. W., were all slightly injured. Miss Annette Barrow, of the Lucile avenue address, and Meyers escaped injury.

The strikers, who sought to induce FERA workers to quit their jobs at the park, were angered by the arrest. Goaded to action by a woman wearing a red and white checked dress, they attempted to wrest the man from the deputies. The melee followed. No one was hurt. Two men were arrested.

COUNCIL NAMES BOARD TO PROBE DAIRY FARM

Action Is Outgrowth of Margaret Brooks' "Sweet Box" Charge, Denied by Officials.

Despite the flat denial of authorities that prisoners at the city dairy farm have been subjected to mistreatment, city council Monday afternoon named a special committee to probe conditions at the prison. This action came as the aftermath of a charge made Sunday by Margaret Brooks that she had been confined in the "sweet box" at the farm that she had attempted suicide six times since last Friday.

Meanwhile, the Brooks woman was removed from the city prison, where she had made the suicide attempt, and confined in Fulton tower to await trial in criminal court of Atlanta on a vagrancy charge. At the tower she was placed with other prisoners but a close watch was kept on her by officials to prevent any additional suicide attempt.

In trying to end her life she had swallowed disinfectant and had slashed her wrists with razor blades, pieces of glass and broken electric light bulbs. She has been bound over from recorder's court on a misdemeanor charge, under which the maximum sentence is 12 months at the state farm, six months in prison and a fine of not more than $1,000. It is the usual practice, however, to send convicted women defendants to the state farm.

Therefore, if the Brooks woman is convicted, it is unlikely that she will have to go to the city dairy farm, where, she charges, there is a "sweet box" in which she was kept for many hours.

Prison officials admitted that such a box existed but denied that it was used on white prisoners.

The councilman investigating committee was named on a motion by Councilman Frank Wilson and was headed by Councilman R. B. Lyle, chairman of the prison committee in charge of the dairy farm. Wilson was named chairman of the committee to serve with Alderman J. Sid Tiller and Councilman J. Frank Beck as members.

Work Gets Under Way At "Dafoe Hospital"

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Work on the first floor of the Dafoe hospital for the Dionne quintuplets got under way today and the ring of hammers was heard for the first time. The stone foundation was completed over the weekend. The five little sisters were 84 days old today.

Dr. Howard Kelly, emeritus professor of gynecology of Johns Hopkins University, who gave a radium treatment to a tumor on Marie's left thigh August 6, visited the Dionne farm Sunday. Dr. Kelly said there was a slight reaction, and he expressed complete satisfaction with the condition of the tumor.

The 12-week-old sisters all made gains today for an aggregate increase of 4 1/4 ounces, to bring their combined weight to 27 pounds, 10 ounces.

Flying Boat Lands On Ocean for Night

CLIPPER OF CABO FRIO, BRAZIL, OFFERS PASSENGERS A NIGHT OF ADVENTURE. The Pan-American airplane, "Brazilian Clipper," enveloped by fog which rolled in from the Atlantic, descended with a party of American newspaper executives and airline officials on a calm sea here this afternoon.

The pilot of the airliner, deciding not to risk proceeding to Rio de Janeiro through fog and darkness, swung the plane into a sheltered cove for the night.

The 19 passengers looked forward to passing a night on the water as a pleasant, uncheduled adventure. One of the passengers commanded the refectory and proceeded to dispense food. There was a merry dinner party and all prepared to sleep in berths as comfortable as those of a Pullman car.

The Clipper, making a round-trip flight to Buenos Aires, will take off this morning for Rio de Janeiro, 80 miles down the coast.

Wheat Congress Gets New-Old Plan Today

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A draft of a plan for a new international wheat agreement, it was learned today, has been completed for submission to the 21 governments adhering to the present pact and represented in the conference now under way here.

A much more flexible plan for control of exports than that used during the past year was understood to be one of the features of the proposed agreement, which, it was authoritatively stated, "merely aims at keeping intact the international machinery for regulation of world wheat trade."

The only change for quota agreement this year, in the view of some delegates to the conference, would be the adoption of a scheme "so flexible as to permit of a gradual increase in prices if prices decline was stated to have been definitely tabled.

PIN-HEAD SPIDER DEFEATING SNAKE 12 INCHES LONG

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The craft of a shiny, black spider, its body barely larger than a pin head, was enough to day to hold at bay—if not slow to conquer—a foot-long garter snake, a mortal enemy.

The two are locked in a death duel in the cellar of a Baltimore home. After more than 80 hours of conflict, the title of battle was definitely on the side of the minute foe, "no bigger than an eye of the snake."

The snake, voraciously fond of spiders, flies, small bugs and the like, entered the cellar four days ago and sought to make a morsel of the spider. Instead, it ran afoul of the spider's web, swung between a spigot and a water boiler near the cellar floor.

Desperately it sought to release itself from the treacherous clutches of the web, only to become more securely entangled. Dangling from vantage point to another, the tiny spider deftly and swiftly encircled the snake with slender but tough silken strands.

Intermittent writhing and twisting to free itself has all but left the snake exhausted. Its struggles slowly are becoming less violent. Horace P. Lane Jr., at whose home the battle scene is pitched, commented:

"Whether he's resigned to his fate, or just conserving his strength for a stiffer battle is hard to say. Anyhow he shows less pep."

"It's going to be a battle to the finish. I do not plan to interfere."

All the while the little spider, full of the cunning and patience of its kind, perches on its web waiting for the struggles to cease—for the death of its foe. It keeps a close watch and sallies forth occasionally to repair rents in the web or loop another deadly turn around the snake's body.

ARMY ALASKAN FLIGHT AIDS U. S. AVIATION

Shows Planes Can Land Anywhere and Spurs Larger Craft.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The successful mass flight of army aviators to Alaska will lead to important changes in American aerial defense plans.

This was indicated today soon after the squadron of 10 planes, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel H. H. Arnold, landed at Bolling field to complete 10,000 miles of flying and receive the warmest greetings of Secretary Dern and high army officials.

Findings of the air armada will be compiled immediately and submitted to Secretary Dern, who assured Colonel Arnold today that he intended to make every effort to place the army air corps in the front rank of world powers.

Arnold expressed himself as extremely gratified with the performance of the new Martin bombers and with the way in which the three-fold purposes of the Alaskan flight were accomplished.

"We have proved," he said, "that it is possible to take tactical units of the air corps to Alaska quickly and bring them back successfully."

The results through fog and darkness to the north, begun a month ago, will have an important bearing on the construction of much bigger bombers, capable of longer flight. Agreements already have been made with the Glenn L. Martin Company and the Boeing Aircraft Company for secret development of these new giant craft. Part of this cost is being borne by the government.

"When we left Washington a month ago," Colonel Arnold said, "we had three things to do. First, we were to make a goodwill tour of Canada, which we carried out 100 per cent satisfactorily. Second, we were to see whether it was possible to take a tactical unit of the air corps to Alaska and whether the Martin bombers could be landed successfully at any and all airports. Third, we had a photographic mission."

"In carrying out the latter we made an aerial mosaic of an area 400 miles long and 50 miles wide, which, I might add, is a lot of square miles. This was done in three days, the only three days in which photographic work was possible."

FERA Traffic Report Will Be Ready Soon

Recommendations of the FERA traffic survey soon will be made to city council and the police and fire departments. DeFord Smith, traffic survey director, said Monday night in a conference with members of the police committee.

Smith and FERA survey engineers said that already it is evident that the city has far too many traffic regulations and that it will be recommended that many of them be dropped. The police committee promised the fullest co-operation possible in carrying out the proposals of the survey engineers for speeding up traffic in the city and in reducing automobile accidents.

A. Lamar Poole, O. H. Pendley, secretary of the police committee; Murphy Holloway, who is connected with the survey, and others attended the conference of the committee and Director Smith.

MAN IS UNDER BOND FOR SLAUGHTERING CALVES AFTER DARK

R. J. Crawley, 159 Palatka avenue, Decatur, was at liberty under $100 bond Monday on a charge of slaughtering calves after sundown in violation of a state law. The statute also sets the weight and age of calves which may be slaughtered.

The charges alleged that Crawley had been slaughtering calves in the woods at night. The sundown law was passed in order that adequate inspection could be made of meat and the measure was backed by the slaughter houses. Cows and calves may be slaughtered in a regular slaughter house after sundown, if it is properly equipped with adequate lighting fixtures.

PICCARDS TO START STRATO INVASION ON SEPTEMBER 3

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Professor and Mrs. Jean Piccard, of Wilmington, Del., today announced definite plans for a stratosphere flight starting from Wright airport September 3, or as soon thereafter as weather conditions permit.

Professor and Mrs. Piccard began their training for the flight here last spring. Mrs. Piccard, member of three sons, will pilot the balloon, having passed her flight tests and a written examination in June to qualify for a Federation Aeronautique Internationale license.

The flight, during which Professor Piccard will study the cosmic rays, will mark the first attempt of a woman to enter the stratosphere, and will be the first time in aeronautical history that a woman has attempted to pilot a balloon on a flight of importance.

Many Weapons Found in Jail in Virginia

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Prisoners' lockers at the District of Columbia reformatory, Lorton, Va., yielded knives, blinies and slingshots today when officials searched for weapons.

Two hundred and fifty prisoners were locked in their cells pending the search while others were confined to dormitories. Guards hunted guns after they tipped in the bed a strike which the prisoners had planned in protest against prison food, and in an effort to force officials to answer a list of 50 grievances.

Lorton houses about 1,225 prisoners, among them 200 federal offenders.

PAUL ST. GAUDENS TO SUBMIT DESIGN FOR HARRIS STATUE

Application to compete in the Uncle Roush memorial contest was received Monday from Paul St. Gaudens, of Cornish, Vt. St. Gaudens is the nephew of the late Augustus St. Gaudens, famous sculptor of the famous Pilgrim and Phillips Brooks statues in Boston and of "Grief" in the National cemetery at Washington.

Paul St. Gaudens, 33 years of age, has studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris and in Italy. He is best known for his potteries. He works in Miami in the winter and in Vermont during the summer. Associated with him is his mother, who is a sister of Professor Lewis Johnson, of Agnes Scott College, Decatur.

The late Paul St. Gaudens Sr. was associated in a contest for the Augustus St. Gaudens and therefore received very little individual recognition. However, he and his wife are identified as the sculptors of the heroic statues at the Pennsylvania station in Washington.

COL. FRANK KNOX RAPS BUREAUCRACY GROWTH

Publisher Says U. S. Is Taking Too Great Hand in Business.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Colonel Frank Knox, editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, tonight charged that the "profligate spending of public funds" and the "swift growth of bureaucracy" are threatening the American system of popular government.

"If men are to be free, business must be free," he declared in an address given under the auspices of the "Cruisers," an organization originally formed to fight prohibition but now reorganized to campaign for what is termed individual freedom.

Discussing the spending of public funds, Colonel Knox said: "Already the total number of citizens who derive their entire support from the government pay roll of one sort or another include one in every five. This is a sufficient number, in our two-party system, to control any national election since the Civil War."

Under such a system, he said, "our popular institutions and our liberties will vanish just as they have for the peoples of Italy and Germany, in each of which countries but one political party is tolerated and permitted to exist."

Colonel Knox asserted that both in debt and tax the nation is approaching the line of tolerance beyond which it cannot go without inviting complete fiscal disaster. He charged that the democratic party had thrown to the winds its platform pledge of having less government in business.

"The government is more deeply involved in business today than ever before in national history," he said. "Those measures of a purely emergency character which have been undertaken solely to increase employment may be justified, but unless we halt the very definite plans now being put into effect by many of those in high administrative councils, we shall find ourselves saddled with, and the victims of the greatest bureaucracy ever erected in the world."

Experience has shown, he said, that the vital economic policy of a free government and a free people must be a free competitive system of business, sufficiently regulated to prevent exploitation of the weak by the strong and sufficiently competitive to insure against monopoly.

"Never lose sight of the fact that business must be free if men are to be free," the publisher warned.

Colonel Knox said the total local and federal debt to July 1 was approximately $50,000,000,000, or $5,000,000,000 more than the most optimistic estimates of the entire national income for 1934.

He asserted that the share in the total local and federal debt of a family with an income of $4,000 a year will be $4,070 or more than its entire income.

Even worse, he continued, is the annual burden of taxation which must be borne by this family. Its share in the federal government costs, he said, would total more than $2,000 a year. However, as only about $4,000,000,000 of the federal costs will be raised this year, his share of this tax for the year is $363," he said. "Adding this to the $878 local government costs, his total share for the year is $1,241, or over 30 per cent of his income."

Only a small sum of this will be paid in direct taxes, said Colonel Knox. He pointed out that the greater portion will be paid in taxes on sales and services.

New Safety Record For Factories Is Set

PERU, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—A new world's safety record for an industrial plant was claimed by employees of the Western Clock Company today when the old mark of 9,166,634 consecutive hours without an accident was passed. The last lost time accident at the Western Clock works occurred December 17, 1931.

The Old Hickory, Tenn., plant of J. I. du Pont de Nemours Company held the old record. Previous safety records have been held successively by the Corrigan, McKinney Steel Company, at Cleveland; R. J. du Pont & Co., at Deepwater Point, N. J.; Remington Typewriter Company, Syracuse, N. Y.; Clark Thread Company, Newark, N. J., and the du Pont plant at Old Hickory, Tenn.

The new record stands at 9,166,635 hours and is going up.

Forest Fire Fighters Base Hopes on Wind

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 20.—(AP) Foresters today listened to the wind to learn if it would whistle a tune of victory or defeat in their efforts to stem the flames raging through the forests of the west.

In the Kalkau forest of northern Idaho, the fate of 25 miles of fire line along Poca river depended on the action of the wind.

In territory on Little Lightning creek, the same condition prevailed. Central Idaho's battle was going about even. Howard Flint, inspector, reporting gains in the Clearwater forest and "a draw" in the Selway.

LITTLE or MUCH... it is what they will get!

I FIND MANY MEN today who take the attitude that conditions have so changed the character of their estates, that they will not consider trust administration.

They are "waiting until I can know where I stand."

To my mind this is a great mistake.

The smart man is the one who is continuously prepared. None of us has a lease on life. If an estate has grown smaller, the dollars it contains are more important than ever. Little or much, your estate when you die is all that your family will receive.

Trusteeing that estate through the Trust Department of the bank means that you are continuously prepared. If you live and rebuild, you will have the co-operation of these experienced men in making any desirable changes in the structure or distribution.

And if you die — your family will be assured of the counsel of competent, experienced and capable men who will carry out your wishes and protect the loved ones for whom you are building.

The MAN-ON-THE-STREET

THE CITIZENS & SOUTHERN NATIONAL BANK

No Account Too Large... None Too Small

This is Number 94 in a series of visits by "The Man-on-the-Street"

BREAK O'DAY!

Ty Cobb came east from California because his small son wanted to see Detroit—where his father made baseball history. Ty had—just an hour before—refused the invitation of the Detroit club to come east as its guest.

The Detroit people called and Cobb thanked them but refused. "He had retired," he told them, "and he thought he had better not come all that distance just to see a ball game."

The Detroit people insisted, but Cobb was adamant. He and all his family would have had to pick up and go. So he said he wouldn't.

His 13-year-old son, Howell Cobb, was listening. When the conversation was done he came up and put his arm around his father's shoulder.

"Dad," he said, "I wish you'd go. I want to go with you." "Why do you want to make that trip?" asked the senior Ty.

"Well, dad," he said, "I want to see the Detroit park where you played for so long. I've read about what you did there and I've heard about it. And I want to see it."

Ty Cobb never hesitated. "All right, son," he said, "if you want to go, we'll go."

And so the family packed up and came east again—dropping off in Atlanta for a while after seeing the Detroit team win in the park where Ty Cobb was a star for a quarter of a century. And Howell Cobb saw his father throw out the first ball and heard the great crowd cheer him.

Ty Cobb is known as a person lacking entirely in sentiment. But like most people with that reputation, he only masks it well. And at times—when his son wanted to see the park where his father had made baseball history—he didn't mask it at all.

SEES JOYNER WHITE.

"I looked at Joyner White out there in the outfield," said Ty Cobb. "And I knew he was from Georgia. I saw his sandy-looking hair and his young face, and it all came back to me—my own story in panorama."

"I saw myself coming up from Augusta and reporting—a raw-looking kid like Joyner White. It just swept through me—all my years in baseball. And I got a tremendous kick out of it."

Joyner White is an Atlanta boy and is one of the star outfielders with the Tigers.

THE SECOND BALLOON CHAPTER.

This is the second chapter of the Trammell Scott balloon story.

He told it Sunday as he watched Professor Raub go up a mile in his old patched fire balloon and cut loose from three parachutes.

Major Scott told of being in an observation balloon during the war when a German plane pilot cut loose at it with incendiary bullets. The major put one leg over the edge—looked down and would not jump.

"Let him come, I won't jump," he said.

That afternoon the colonel said: "Major Scott, the observer tells me you are quite a hero. When that German started shooting you said, 'Let him come, I won't jump.'"

"Well, colonel," said Major Scott, "I don't like to sail under false impressions. I may have said I wouldn't jump. I was so scared I don't know what I said. But the real reason I didn't jump was because I looked down and was so paralyzed at the idea I couldn't jump. So, that's why I didn't."

The balloon escaped the fire bullets—one of the few that did.

The major got a great kick out of watching Professor Raub make his 1,482d leap. "Just shut full of fiddle-string material," was his comment.

THE JUNIOR GOLFERS.

The junior golfers are in action at the Ingleside club this week and it would not be surprising were some youngster to startle us all with a great game.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt but that to achieve success at anything requiring the maximum of co-ordination and timing that one must start as a youngster.

The youngsters will produce another winner for Atlanta some day. The accomplishments of Bobby Jones was a real inspiration and now that Charley Yates is winning national titles the new inspiration is there to get them into golf.

There are youngsters now of not more than a dozen years of age who possess a golf grip and swing which they acquired easily and with no appreciable effort. There are grown-ups who have spent hundreds of dollars for lessons and hours and hours of practice—and never achieved anything like it.

The youthful muscles, nervous system and brain adapt things easily.

THE JUDGE SETTLES STRIKE.

The Great Dean strike by the Dizzy brothers is over, settled by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, the dictator of baseball.

The Judge upheld the owners who had fined Dizzy and Paul Dean, and ruled the fine must stay. The Deans had refused to play in an exhibition game. Rather, I think, they had "missed the train."

The Judge has his troubles that we never hear of. When he recently he came storming into the room and said to Colonel T. L. Huston:

"Cap, do you realize the telephone has set civilization back 100 years?"

"I've got mine fixed so I can ring the devil out of anybody else but they can't ring me," said Cap Huston.

"How did you do that?" asked the Judge.

"Saved off the bell," said the Colonel.

Whereupon the Judge went over and kissed the Colonel on the brow.

"Why couldn't I have thought of that?" he asked.

The Judge gets dozens of calls daily from club owners with problems. He won't give a real decision over the telephone.

"Fellows would call me and put one of these hypothetical questions up to me," he said, "about player A and B. And later I'd get the papers and find they'd traded a player to someone about like Al Capone. So I must see all the papers and I don't make any more decisions by telephone."

Mrs. Glenna Vare Enters U. S. Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenna Vare, who said a month ago that the care of two children would make it impossible for her to compete this year for the national women's golf title—which she held five times—has filed an entry for the tournament.

Her husband, Edwin H. Vare Jr., said today the former Glenna Collett sent in her entry last night, but pointed out that "it is a question whether she is strong enough to play" in the tourney which opens October 1 at the near-by Whitmarsh Country Club.

After the birth of her second child six weeks ago, Mrs. Vare had announced her decision not to compete this year.

Paul Waner Gains On Terry in Big Six

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh's slugging outfielder, again closed in on Manager Bill Terry, of the Giants, yesterday in their battle for the National League batting crown. While Memphis Bill had to be content with one hit, Paul cracked out four safe blows to gain 5 points and advance into second place with an average of .364. Terry dropped a point and his average fell to .373. Mel Ott, the only other member of the sextet to get into action, also lost ground, his percentage falling to .360.

Dizzy Dean Is Reinstated; Fine of $100 Stays Crackers To Sign Parham; Lose Opener, 5-4

'Robby' Would Have Enjoyed Being Present

PAGE EIGHT THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1934.

This undoubtedly was what Spencer Abbott was thinking of yesterday as he signed Harry Kelley, the former ace of the Memphis Chickasaws, to a Cracker contract. Kelley, who has won 19 games and lost 8 for the Chickasaws, will make his debut in a Cracker uniform tonight when he hurls against his old teammates at Ponce de Leon park. It will be ladies' night and a big crowd is expected to turn out to welcome the former nemesis of the Crackers to Atlanta. Kelley, incidentally, beat the Crackers, 7-3, at Memphis on August 12. His last victory for the Chicks was on August 16, when he got credit for a win over Nashville, first-half champs, 7-6. Kelley says his arm is as good as ever and hopes to turn up with six wins for Atlanta ere the season is up. Atlanta fans are happy over Kelley joining the Crackers and will be "pulling" for him. Photo by Cornett.

DIZZY RESTORED TO GOOD GRACE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, star pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was restored to good standing late today after a hearing before Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, but the $100 fine assessed against him for missing an exhibition game in Detroit was allowed to stand.

Commissioner Landis, after a hearing lasting more than three hours, ruled that the club was within its rights in fining and suspending Dizzy, but President Sam Breadon and Manager Frankie Frisch immediately went into a huddle and decided to restore the pitcher to good standing.

Previously, Breadon and Frisch had insisted on a 10-day suspension. Dizzy's rebellion cost him a total of $485—the $100 fine, seven days' lost pay at $50 a day, and $36 for two uniforms he tore in a rage when Frisch told him he was suspended.

Paul, Dizzy's pitching brother, also fined and suspended for missing the Detroit trip, was restored to good standing last week after paying a $50 fine and signing a statement agreeing to obey club rules. He lost two days' pay at $20 a day.

LARGEST FIELD IN QUALIFYING

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(UP)—The largest field in the history of the national amateur golf championships, 730 players in all, will tee off tomorrow in qualifying rounds over 23 courses throughout the United States.

In addition, 11 have already made their bid for qualifying places in the Honolulu district, and 13—including George T. Dunlap Jr., defending champion; Lawson Little, British amateur champion, and 11 former champions—are exempt from qualifying play.

Of the 730, 19 will be playing away from home and will have to equal the highest qualifying scores in the districts in which they play to gain the favored list in their home districts.

New York, with 118 entries, and Boston, with 112, lead the list, each having 25 places to fill.

In cases where qualifiers are unable to compete, substitutes will be selected to fill each district quota for the national play at Brookline, Mass., September 10 to 15.

Coleman and Jordon In Feature Tonight

A capacity crowd is expected at the Buckhead arena tonight to see Wayne Coleman, Roosevelt's favorite, and Tarzan Jordan, Atlanta's star, in a 90-minute limit, three-fall affair.

Jordan is a big favorite at the Buckhead arena and is expected to rise Coleman, a real thrashing. Coleman has a wonderful record and will be fighting to keep it clean.

The semi-final match of one-hour limit sees Sully Harbin, of Chamblee, take on the rugged Harry Nixon, of Fort Myers, Va., U. S. army champion.

The 30-minute opening bout brings together Bob Anderson, pride of Buckhead, and Dick Jones. Anderson and Jones are bitter rivals of long standing and a good bout is expected.

There is plenty of free parking space next to the arena. Popular prices will be an effect. The Buckhead arena is located at Peachtree and West Peach Pkwy. The program starts promptly at 8:15 p. m.

JUNIOR STARS SHARE HONORS

Ralph Barnes, the defending champion, and Bobby Troutman, two of the most promising young golfers in the city, shared medal honors Monday in the qualifying round for the annual Atlanta junior tournament at the Ingleside Country Club course.

The winning score was an 80, 10 strokes above par, and mighty good golf for the youngsters.

There were 32 entries and two divisions of 16 each were formed. The winning and losing players in each division today will form flights and continue play Wednesday.

The entry was one of the largest ever recorded for a city junior event and the competition is certain to be keener than ever before, with no player having any advantage over the others.

IMPRESSIVE SCORE. Barnes' score was more impressive than that of Troutman, who incidentally qualified for the state amateur with a 78 on the East Lake course.

Barnes had an eight on the par five fourth hole and four sixes, but played some spectacular golf on other holes to make up for the losses. He needed a four on the par three 18th to win the medal, but took a five instead.

Young Troutman was far more consistent than Barnes, even though he was over par on several holes. He carded a six on each of the par five holes in both rounds.

Without shirts or shoes and with only a determination to hit that ball and win one of those prizes, the youngsters are really having a golf battle all their own.

Jimmy Livingstone told two of the boys that every player over 17 years of age must wear a shirt on the course. The shirts were put on in quick succession and the Ingleside pro told them to turn in their cards. "We have played only nine holes," the boys replied. "You are disqualified for being over age."

The youngsters continued their round. "We are not 16 years old," they shouted after a hasty drive from the 10th tee.

DOWN MIDDLE. All form, stance, rhythm and what it takes to make the perfect golf shot is absent from the tournament, but those youngsters are keeping them down the middle and go straight for the cups. The distances may not be long, but stroke by stroke, they get there and with determination.

The event is being sponsored by the Atlanta Golf Association and trophies and prizes will be given to the winner and runner-up in each flight.

The medalists' cards:

Robby 'Gets' His Wish As Harry Kelley Signs

Dream of Late Chief Was To Land Memphis Ace for His Crackers.

By Jimmy Jones.

Back from a vacation where one is supposed to go to relieve that it-yard feeling, one walks up the ramp-way of the Cracker grandstand to find a change come over the place.

There is an old face missing and a new one to take its place. An abysmal quiet reigns at the second door to the right where once Wilbert Robinson's hearty tones boomed forth in greeting. And the friendly little Boston bungalow that used to consort with that kindly gentleman waddled forth to be petted.

It was a bit strange to find Spencer Abbott seated at the desk there, sleeves rolled up and discharging the routine duties over which the big chief used to fret and use as subject matter for some of his brightest witticisms.

And who is that stocky figure sitting four rows down, chatting with Nap Rucker, the scout? The set of those shoulders and the short neck are familiar, although not in that particular spot.

Abbott beckons to him and the stocky figure arises to go into the office to talk over a contract.

It is none other than Harry Kelley, the Arkansas boy who caused the Crackers all that pain and mental anguish during nine years with Memphis and two with other clubs. He walked right through the door to what used to be the big fellow's office.

There was a wistful thought there. The big man, Wilbert Robinson, second base and no happier sight than to have seen Harry Kelley, bowed legs and all, walk through that door to sign a contract.

He always wanted Kelley, did Robby. He made two efforts to buy him, the last one in the spring when he telephoned Tom Watkins from Dover Hall when he heard Kelley was on the block and offered $5,000 for him.

Once before he had tried for him in a winter meeting, but Watkins wouldn't sell while Robby was alive. And that was too bad, for we recalled how Robby used to fume and throw away half-smoked cigars when Kelley simply threw his glove out there and beat the Crackers.

THOUGHTS GO BACK. "What if we had a fellow like that," he would say as the last Cracker popped out in the ninth. Harry Kelley was probably thinking of Robby, too, as he walked into the office to sign that contract. He could not escape it, what with pictures of the late chief beaming from the office walls, . . . shaking hands with President Martin . . . receiving the opening day attendance cup . . . all beaming wholesome pictures.

And as the former scourge of the Crackers affixed his name to the contract with a flourish and smiled for photographers, the pictures of Robby on the wall seemed to be smiling, too. The chief's dream had come true, although too late for worldly realization.

"I'm glad to be here," said Kelley, returning to Nap Rucker's side. "I've been wanting to shake loose and come in here for two years. I tried to buy my release but Watkins wouldn't hear of my coming to Atlanta or any other club in this league."

WANTED HIM. "I knew that Robby wanted me, too, and I had been at Memphis so long that I thought I should have a change. Well here I am, and happy to be an Atlanta pitcher for yet another time. But gee, it's tough, Robby not being here when it came."

Tonight Harry Kelley, who won 19 games for Memphis against eight lost before "joining up" here, will pitch his first game in a Cracker uniform against his old mates, the Chickasaws. It will be ladies' night and a crowd of 2,500 would be a conservative estimate.

It will be good to see Kelley toiling

ATLANTARALLY FAILS IN NINTH AS CHICKS WIN

Wright Loses Chance To Win When Umps Rule Blow Foul.

By Jimmy Jones.

Those Memphis Blues are a very melancholy brand of blues when one has them as often as the Crackers, who lost a tough game to that ball club again yesterday, 5 to 4.

Last week in Memphis the Cracker pitcher had two men out in the ninth inning when someone kicked one and a single went for a triple or something like that and Memphis won the game by one run.

Yesterday in the ninth inning with one out, young Taft Wright hit a curving liner over the flagpole in right field that everybody apparently thought was a home run—saving the two umpires.

Wright caught the ball, Harry Threlor and "Pip" Koehler were perched on base, Wright's drive obviously won the ball game.

START LEAVING. Players began gathering up paraphernalia around the dugout and leaving the field. Fans, sure that the Crackers had won, rushed on the field to congratulate the boys.

But hark, there was Umpire John Quinn on the bases and Umpire Bick Campbell behind the plate, raising their hands aloft in what looked like the Nazi salute of Herr Hitler, but which in reality was a gesture signifying that it was a foul ball.

Wright came back to bat and Clay Touchstone struck him out in two pitches. Palmisano forced Koehler at second on the next play and another game had gone a-glimmering to those Chicks by one run.

This episode, and a few that transpired previously, proved that anything can happen to the Crackers and that it is usually the worst.

In the eighth inning, Eddie Moore drove a hard line drive to left that would have tied the score but for a fine catch by Willie Duke, the Chicks' rookie outfielder who is quite a ball player. Lynn Nelson was on second with the tying run by virtue of a pinch double but he stayed right there when Duke got his hooks on the ball.

DOES IT TWICE. Back in the sixth inning this same culprit, Mr. Duke, robbed Eddie Moore, Abbott, incidentally, revealed that he is going to sign Bob Parham, former Georgia Tech athlete and Cracker outfielder, to a contract some time today.

Parham, who broke in with the Crackers in 1929 and had a good year is now a free agent after several years with the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Braves. He last played with Elmira, a Card subsidiary, and before that played at Rochester, Columbus and Houston.

PARHAM SIGNS TODAY. "With Sherrin still hurt and Koehler playing second base, I need someone around who could play outfield in case of emergency," Spencer stated. Parham, recently released from Elmira, is in the city. Yesterday he applied to Abbott for a job and Spencer is certain he will sign him to a contract some time today.

The Crackers couldn't do a thing with Jim Henry, a young right-hander who had a trial with the Crackers last year, seven innings yesterday. They did get a run off him in the first without a hit when Eddie Moore walked, advanced on a steal and wild pitch and scored on McKee's fly.

They didn't get anything else, but like a hit off Henry until "Pip" Koehler singled cleanly in the sixth.

But in the eighth, the Crackers went after Jim Henry hammer and tong and got him out of there with none out when Taft Wright led with a single and Palmisano doubled. Clay Touchstone, the veteran curve-baller, came in from the bullpen and Lynn Nelson, hitting for Smith, greeted him with a Texas leaguer double back of third that scored Wright.

PALMISANO SCORES. Palmisano scored when Duke made his sensational catch of Moore's drive right on the left-field lines, but Chattanooga was a strike-out victim to end the rally, leaving Lynn Nelson straggled.

The Crackers had scored a run in

JUNIOR CHAMBER NETMEN CLASH

Some of the first-round matches of the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament were completed Monday as play started in this year's affair. The remainder of the preliminary pairings will be run off Tuesday, thus placing the racketeers in the second round.

As was expected, the Phillips-Mullin set-to was the feature of the afternoon, as both players featured their play with rallies, Mullin furnishing the extra stamina to win, 6-4, 6-4. In both sets Phillips led, only to be overcome by some beautiful placements in the latter stages of each set. In the only other two matches played, Bryan defeated Harper, 6-1, 6-4, and MacCarty won from Hopkins, 6-4, 6-1.

The schedule of play calls for the second-round matches to be completed Thursday, with the semi-finals on Friday and the finals on Saturday.

Mullin, who won his match Monday, is one of the seeded players, as are Warren Cox, former Emory University star; Hugh Wallace, last year's champion of Mercer University; Orrin Vogel, finalist in one year's tourney, and Frank Richards. However, with the champion out of competition this year, all players have a chance in what is expected to be a wide open affair.

First-round scores and matches are as follows:

MacCarty defeated Hopkins, 6-4, 6-1. Mullin defeated Phillips, 6-4, 6-4. Bryan defeated Harper, 6-1, 6-4. Cox vs. Patterson. Harry Saul vs. Bill Patterson. Richards vs. Altmeyer. Burdum vs. Brookshire. Vogel vs. Wallace.

JEWRY RAPS SPREAD OF ANTI-SEMITIC MOVE

Third Reich's Power as Adversary Minimized by Dr. Goldmann.

GENEVA, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Jews of the world, through Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the committee of Jewish delegations, tonight warned the Hitler regime in Germany that Jewry has known more powerful adversaries than the third reich and has "always outlasted them."

Goldmann, addressing the opening session of the World Jewish conference, scored the German government and reported also that he had found anti-Semitic tendencies in Austria and a strong movement against his race in several South and Central American countries.

He named Argentina and Mexico among the latter and charged also that the Jewish religion, Hebrew literature and Zionism are persecuted in Soviet Russia.

Germany under the present regime was accused by Goldmann of trying to realize an exaggerated racial principle "by brutal methods of force."

"Democracy, liberalism, freedom and tolerance," he declared, "will retain their values when posterity will look back upon the third reich as a thing of horror."

There can be no compromise, Goldmann added, in the Jewish fight against the policy in the reich against the race.

death of her beloved husband and was put to bed by her physician.

Senator Dieterich, democrat, Illinois, a close friend of the late speaker, was at Carrollton assisting Mrs. Rainey in making plans for the funeral.

Thousands Express Grief.

Meantime, thousands of messages of condolence were sent to "Walnut Hill," the Rainey home. Others were received at the speaker's offices from his former colleagues, diplomats and high government officials.

Many personally visited the speaker's chamber today to leave their cards of sympathy.

Major William T. Roy, assistant house parliamentarian, who is in charge, said the office force placed wreaths on the speaker's desk in the house chamber and laid the leader's favorite gavel alongside.

Flags waved at half staff about the capitol and will remain that way until after the funeral services.

Rainey's death in a St. Louis hospital was caused by a heart attack following a short siege of bronchial pneumonia. It was pneumonia also that took the life of Speaker Longworth.

Rainey's death leaves in doubt the question as to who will be the speaker in the next house. The democrats, certain to retain control of the house in the 74th congress, will name the new chief of state at a secret party caucus probably in late December.

ment and for the city. His passing is, indeed, a sad loss to the city.

City council Monday afternoon passed by unanimous vote a resolution of regret at the death of Chief Jentzen.

The resolution presented by Councilman W. R. Johnson, chairman, and the four other members of council's sanitary committee, lauded his service to the city, his sterling character and the faithful performance of his duties.

The resolution expressed the belief that his place would be hard to fill.

Former Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Monday night expressed regret at Chief Jentzen's death and paid him a high tribute.

"I have known Chief Jentzen almost all my life," Mr. Ragsdale said. "He was one of the best city officials Georgia has ever known. He was a high type official and a courageous and conscientious citizen. Atlanta has sustained a real loss. He and I have been friends since he was about eight years old, and I have never known a finer man."

have been taken and they will be carried out with national socialist rapidity and thoroughness.

"The struggle for state power is ended, but the struggle for our beloved people continues. The aim is movable; the day will come when every last German shall carry in his heart the symbol of the reich as a confession of faith."

Army Thanked.

Hitler also sent a message to General Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense and head of the reichswehr (regular army) which, with other defense forces, took an oath of allegiance to Hitler when the latter assumed presidential powers after the death on August 2 of Reichspresident Paul von Hindenburg.

While Hitler does not have—and has proclaimed again and again that he does not want—the title of president, his position consolidates powers, including legislative which amount to dictatorship.

He holds no cabinet posts, except that of chancellor, and the "second in command" has not been named since the transfer of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen to the post of minister to Austria.

Among the thousands of persons who crowded before the chancellery today to cheer Hitler was a delegation of 2,000 from the Saar region.

After they pressed their loyalty, Hitler replied from the window where he appeared again and again during the day.

"On January 13, 1935, the whole nation will accompany the plebiscite (in the Saar) with prayers and we all are convinced that the Saar territory sufferings will then be ended."

He referred to the plebiscite which will determine whether the Saar remains under the League of Nations or becomes a part either of Germany or France.

PARIS SEES SETBACK FOR REICH DICTATOR

PARIS, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A setback in Chancellor Hitler's hope to "dazzle foreign powers" by showing that all Germany is backing him was seen by French leaders today in the results of the German plebiscite.

Hitler's "message to Europe" nevertheless is unabated, said quarters close to the government, since he "remains master of Germany with increasing dependence on the reichswehr for support."

The 10 per cent opposition to Hitler expressed in the plebiscite was regarded here as indicating a stronger undercurrent of discontent.

That "Pan-Germanism is in arms and on the march," is shown by the vote, Henry Berggren, chairman of the senate committee on affairs committee, wrote for the Agence Economique et Financiere.

"The duel henceforth is begun in Europe between Pan-Germanism and the existence of other nationalities and civilizations. It is the pre-1914 menace which is recommencing."

The French press generally proclaimed the "duty of maintaining a strong force to assure peace" and declared that "despite signs of weakening" the Hitler regime is "not finished."

BLOCKS MURDER TRIAL

MARIETTA, Okla., Aug. 20.—(AP) Officers began search for John Smith, former Trackerville constable, after Smith failed to appear today for his trial on a charge of murdering Sheriff Sam H. Randolph, of Love county.

District Judge John B. Ogden ordered Smith's $10,000 bond forfeited and issued a warrant for the defendant's arrest. Bail was increased to $25,000.

Chicago Also Refuses

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer today decided he would be no party to the projected marriage of one-half of the Hilton twins.

Violet, right half of the Siamese Hiltons, was refused a license here to marry a musician appearing in the same stage act with the twins.

Violet recently was refused a license in New York and Jersey City, New Jersey.

Prominent Figures in Both Parties Join in Mourning Rainey's Death

By the Associated Press.

Democrat and republican leaders alike expressed sorrow today at the death of Speaker Henry T. Rainey, of whom President Roosevelt said that he "kept the spirit of youth."

Roosevelt Confers With Johnson on NRA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—

President Roosevelt began earnest consideration today of the problem of reorganizing the NRA.

He conferred all afternoon with Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator; Secretary Perkins, and Donald R. Richberg, director of the national emergency council. Further conferences will be held, and the emergency council probably will go over tentative plans tomorrow before Johnson starts a vacation Wednesday.

Johnson, at the request of the president, will continue in active leadership under the proposed new set-up. This will be in the form of a board functioning somewhat like an industrial corporation directorship.

The usually outspoken Johnson declined to comment when he left the later White House parley ahead of the others. Presidential spokesmen have made it plain that Johnson will carry on the reorganized NRA.

The entire nation for him to be taken away at this time."

About Capone Train

DEL RIO, Texas, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A guard on the special train bearing Al Capone and 42 other federal convicts from the Atlanta penitentiary to the new Alcatraz island prison for incorrigible prisoners in San Francisco bay threatened to shoot when spectators crowded too close here today.

The convicts jeered the guard. Rifles and machine guns bristled through windows and doors of the heavily guarded train. The spectators fell back.

Residents of San Antonio missed catching a sight of the train when it passed through there shortly after 8 a. m. It had been erroneously reported that the train would not reach there until this afternoon.

Employees Ask Jail For Hotel Violators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—

The "placing of a few conspicuous violators in jail" was advocated at an NRA hearing today as a means of obtaining better compliance with codes of fair competition for hotels and restaurants.

Charles E. Sands, representing the International Union of Hotel and Restaurant Employees, urged this step at a hearing before G. Deforest Lerner, NRA deputy administrator, on proposed liberalizing amendments to the labor provisions of the codes.

Sands said he did not know of a hotel or restaurant that had signed the president's re-employment agreement. He asserted labor would strike before accepting a code amendment providing for a semi-monthly instead of the present weekly pay day.

Edward C. Romine, representing the American Hotel Association, presented an opposite side of the case, asserting that codes must be modified or

Fairbanks Returns To Hollywood Today

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—(AP)—

Douglas Fairbanks will end his 14 months' absence from Hollywood tomorrow morning.

But whether his separation from Mary Pickford, formally announced by Mary soon after Doug departed for Europe, will end is a matter that time alone will disclose.

Doug's aids here, including C. E. Erickson, his business manager, profess not the slightest knowledge of his plans—either domestically or cinematically.

"There is no chance in the world that Mary will meet Doug at the train tomorrow," said a spokesman for Miss Pickford. There was no amplification.

there would be "no other recourse than to appeal to the courts for the right to exist."

Brownell
STOKERS

The economy of automatic stoking—to say nothing of convenience and cleanliness—makes it worthy of anyone's serious consideration. Many home owners have found it far more satisfactory, much less bother and substantially cheaper than any other system of heating.

For homes and commercial plants, the Brownell Automatic Coal Stoker is a decided improvement over other makes, because the construction is simpler, more rugged and easier to operate. The installation cost is very nominal. Operating and fuel cost even more so. Will be glad to send data to anyone on request.

Writes of "Cellini's Angelica," a sketch inspired by
"The Affairs of Cellini"

The years in which Benvenuto Cellini led his riotous existence comprise an era of glamour and stench, of lusty life, like a wench with a rose in her him and the boat could sail with Beatrice, frustrated and alone.

An entertaining thought...

But Beatrice was more than a match for him. She sailed—and with Angelica, by Otis, another route. Cellini himself says, "I followed them to Civita Vecchia and did a multitude of mad things to discover her. It would be too long to narrate them all in detail, enough that I was on the point of losing my wits or dying."

He did neither, course. Immediately after this statement he announces that he engaged in another love affair to drown the memory of his "real passion." But the mere fact that for a split second he feels his brain reel and his heart falter proves conclusively that his feeling for the Sicilian girl was more than fancy.

Within two months she wrote him from Sicily that she was extremely unhappy. More he does not divulge, but it is probable that she lamented the loyalty to her mother which kept her from Cellini's arms and wished herself in a far better place than Sicily. But Cellini did not—or could not—follow her.

Meantime he had come to know a Sicilian priest who set himself up as a necromancer. It is likely that this gentleman was a friend of Beatrice's. Now Cellini consorted with him, dabbled in black magic, frightened himself nearly to death, all in the name of an eventual reunion with Angelica, which the wizard assured him would take place in due season.

Sometime thereafter the goldsmith indulged in a street fight and from the consequences it seemed expedient both to him and to his advisors that he leave Rome until the matter blew over. So leave he did, in company with a sculptor named Solesmo.

Within a short distance of Naples the two, traveling in company with wine and song, encountered an innkeeper who invited them to put up at his tavern. This Cellini and his companion declined to do, but the fellow was most persistent and Cellini, becoming bored, asked him if by any chance he had ever seen Beatrice and Angelica?

The innkeeper, a righteous man, was affronted, set spurs to his horse and galloped away, and Cellini was left burning with the vision of his lost love which his own idle words had conjured up. But presently the innkeeper returned to tell him, not reluctantly that two women of like names were lodged near him, although whether they were Sicilians he could not say.

So Cellini put up at his inn; and was reunited with Angelica, who fell between tears and laughter, into his arms.

A day or so later Cellini sold a diamond to the Viceroys of Naples for which he received 200 ducats. Returning to his lodging he found a communication from Cardinal de Medici demanding that he return to Rome. This order Cellini showed Angelica, who straightway fell to weeping, and begged him either to disregard the order or to take her with him. And he replied that if she would indeed come the 200 ducats given him by the Viceroy would be hers.

Beatrice, entering upon this affecting and generous scene immediately proceeded to catch up the current events and to drive a bargain. If Benvenuto wished to take Angelica to Rome, Beatrice wished 30 ducats. This is one of the most amazing statements in the autobiography, as Cellini refers to his mother-in-law on the left hand as "an old hag." However, he agreed to the 30 ducats and Angelica, guessing her lover to be in an extravagant mood, reminded him that velvet was cheap in Naples, and might she have enough for the black gown? Cellini, amorous and at peace with the world, sent for the velvet, and bought it. Whereupon Beatrice, forgetting that one may drive too hard a bargain, decided that she too wanted a gown of fine stuffs as well as a sum of money for her two grown sons, who, Cellini considered, perhaps rightly, should share in her support.

Thirty ducats was not, it seemed, enough.

At moment before Cellini was desperately in love with Angelica and willing to make any sacrifice for her possession, but in the next he had ceased to love her. He could haggle with princes for the price of a jewel or a statue intricately carved from fine gold; but this bargaining in the name of love was too hard a bargain, he decided that she too wanted a gown of fine stuffs as well as a sum of money for her two grown sons, who, Cellini considered, perhaps rightly, should share in her support.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A JUNGLE ADVENTURE.
II—Rio de Janeiro.

A few days later the harbor of Rio de Janeiro came into sight for those aboard the Adventure.

"Do the Indians you are going to visit speak Portuguese?"

"Oh, no! Probably they do not know half a dozen Portuguese words. Their language is one of the chief things we have come to South America to study. I have a notebook in my pocket containing all the reported, and after each have the English meaning as nearly as it can be given; but all told, I have the meaning of only 25 Kalapalo words."

"Yes," said Mr. Weston, who was standing near her, "you should have a glorious time staying here!"

"This seems like fairyland!" exclaimed Roberto.

"It was evening, and lights were gleaming not only in the city but also on the hills and mountain slopes close around it."

"This seems like fairyland!" exclaimed Roberto. "I am sure I shall have a glorious time staying here!"
